

Ag Watch Grain Market University Introduction

Have you ever attended a “how to” marketing workshop that lasts one day, receive a notebook, come home with great intentions, and forget what you learned by the following week?

If this has happened to you, then consider Ag Watch Grain Market University. This is not a workshop. It is a mentorship program in which you work with Dewey Strickler on how to approach grain marketing from a trader’s perspective. You will learn the indicators and patterns that have worked for him in his trading career. It is a four-month program with three sessions per week. In total, you will spend between 45-50 sessions working directly with him on a one to one basis.

After you complete the training, you will be well armed with the tools necessary to do a successful job of marketing. This program is only for those who intend to make a dedicated commitment.
